INTRODUCTION TO THE FORT WAYNE POLICE DEPARTMENT

Starting in 1697 the French and British built a series of three forts the at the confluence of the St. Joseph River, St. Mary's River, and Maumee River near the Miami Indian village of Kekionga. The last fort was built in 1794 and was named in honor of General "Mad" Anthony Wayne. Fort Wayne was platted in 1823 and experienced a rapid expansion after completion of the Wabash and Erie Canal. The proud tradition of the Fort Wayne Police Department began in 1829 with a single "Village Marshal." That tradition continues today with 460 sworn officers and 110 civilians led by Police Chief Russell P. York.

Police Chief Russell "Rusty" P. York is currently in his 11th year as Chief of Police, serving the 250,000 citizens of Fort Wayne. Chief York is assisted by Assistant Chief Karl Niblick, Deputy Chief Martin Bender of the Northwest Quadrant, Deputy Chief Garry Hamilton, Northeast Quadrant, Deputy Chief Dottie Davis, Southwest Quadrant, Deputy Chief Nancy Chamberlin, Southeast Quadrant and Deputy Chief Paul Shrawder, Investigative Support Division.

SUMMARY OF ACTIVITIES

The primary mission of the Police Training Academy is to facilitate the hiring and training of new officers, give all active and reserve officers of the Fort Wayne Police Department the State-mandated minimum training hours, and facilitate training in specific topics. The secondary mission is to provide or host any secondary training that officers need or could benefit from, and maintain the training records for all sworn and reserve officers and provide this information to the Indiana Law Enforcement Training Board (LETB).

The Academy conducted and graduated the 58th Basic Recruit Class during 2010. In addition to that recruit class, the Academy also provided the 24 hours of in-service training that each FWPD officer needs to stay certified in the State of Indiana.

During the year, the Academy also hosted numerous classes to the benefit of the FWPD; while also providing training opportunities to the agencies around Fort Wayne. This service makes it cost-effective for the smaller agencies, and brings revenue to Fort Wayne area businesses.

INFORMATION SYSTEMS AND TECHNOLOGY UNIT

SUMMARY OF ACTIVITIES

The primary responsibility of the Information Systems and Technology Unit (ISTU) is to maintain the quality, integrity, and security of the Spillman Data Systems public safety database. This database is the central repository for the vast majority of the Department's police records and is shared with several agencies in Allen County.

This year the unit continued its participation in the SafeNet Identification Program. Training personnel in the use of the Department's various computer systems also continued to be a major responsibility of ISTU staff. ISTU staff conceived and executed a complete overhaul of the Department's Intranet site, both in form and content. Nearly all the Department's fleet of nearly 350 mobile data computers (MDC's) operating systems were updated, safety measures were put in place (SteadyState software), and new functionality was introduced (access to Internet law enforcement resources, email, and the updated eVCRS crash program). Initial rollout of the Automated Vehicle Location (AVL) system was completed in 2010, with the vast majority of MDC-equipped vehicles outfitted with GPS receivers.

PUBLIC INFORMATION OFFICE

SUMMARY OF ACTIVITIES

The primary responsibility of this office is to promote the Department in the most positive and professional light. This is accomplished in a variety of ways: Through the accurate and timely release of police information and activities to the public by way of the media, making and facilitating Department presentations and demonstrations, engaging the public at community events, hosting building tours, facilitating ride-along requests, and through many other opportunities.

Release of Information:

The office responds to an average of 100 report requests monthly and releases information daily to print media, local television and radio stations and to internet media. Also in 2010, the office constructed and distributed several Public Service Announcements.

Department Presentations/Demonstrations:

The Department frequently receives requests to make department presentations or to arrange for specialty unit demonstrations. Among the many received in 2010, this office made presentations at the elementary and middle school education level, at several Head Start/Preschool locations, and at summer clubhouses and camps.

Community Events:

The Department partnered with other law enforcement and first responder agencies in the annual Battle for Blood. In this 16th blood donation drive, the American Red Cross collected 1,187 pints of blood and 631 platelet products, exceeding the established goals of 1,100 units of blood and 500 platelet products.

Building Tours / Ride-Along Requests:

The office recognizes the value that building tours and ride-alongs have in establishing community relationships. This office has arranged and hosted several tours of the Police Operations Center throughout the year.

This office continued to be very active though it introduced a new face to the public. Early in 2010, Officer Raquel Foster was assigned as the full-time Public Information Officer for the Department. Officers John Chambers, Michael Joyner, Roy Sutphin, Scott Tegtmeyer, and Liza Thomas continued in a part-time/on-call capacity.

INVESTIGATIVE SUPPORT DIVISION

The mission of the Investigative Support Division for the Fort Wayne Police Department is to provide investigative support for felony criminal incidents to all members of the Police Department, then to put the totality of the known circumstances and facts into a format that is presented to the Prosecutor for determination on charging a suspect. While such a basic description may sound simple enough, in fact, the Investigative Support Division uses dedicated personnel that seek to use the latest in skills, training and technology to solve crime and identify suspects. The ISD consists of many different sections that seek to accomplish this task. While some sections are specialized to address a specific type of crime, others are tasked with assisting in any type of situation that may arise.

To assist in accomplishing its goals, the Investigative Support Division maintains a cooperative relationship with a number of area agencies to serve the community in a common goal of providing services to victims of crime, and investigating and apprehending criminal suspects. Other area law enforcement agencies such as the Allen County Sherriff, New Haven Police Department, Indiana State Police, IPFW University Police and Airport Authority work in collaboration with the Department towards these goals. Additionally, the Fort Wayne Police Department and members of the Investigative Division work closely with various Federal agencies in the area such as the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, United States Marshal Service, Drug Enforcement Agency, United States Postal Authority and U. S. Secret Service agents. The Investigative Division is also in partnership with other victims service providers that assist in criminal investigations such as the Sexual Assault Treatment Center, Dr. Bill Lewis Child Advocacy Center, Crime Stoppers and Indiana State Department of Child Services to name a few.

One of the major focuses for the Bureau in 2010 was in the area of internet massage parlor prostitution. Another major focus was in the area of meth investigations. With the continued production of the "one-pot method," the Bureau has seen a steady rise in methamphetamine cases within the City limits. The third major focus was in the area of long-term investigations. With the assistance of A.T.F., D.E.A. and the F.B.I., the Bureau is very active in multiple long-term investigations resulting in large seizures and mass arrests.

The overall number of arrests for 2010 was 1637, compared to 1699 in 2009. This was a decrease of 4%. Of these totals, 785 of them were felonies in 2010 compared to 1023 in 2009. NORTHWEST DIVISION

At this time, the Northwest Division is providing police service to approximately 61,717 citizens out of the approximately 254,397 who live inside the incorporated areas of Fort Wayne. Northwest officers are responsible for providing police service to 33.07 square miles out of the City's total of 110.36 square miles. To adequately provide police service in this quadrant, the Northwest Division is allotted 53 patrol officers out of the 227 officers available for uniform patrol. These officers are then divided among three shifts according to calls for service volume. They are supervised by nine Sergeants who are also divided among three shifts.

The Northwest Division posted an 11.03% overall crime reduction from the previous year. Some of the crime reduction can be attributed to the dedication of our officers who kept our criminal element in check by making some very outstanding arrests and also to our citizens who have been extra vigilant in monitoring suspicious activity in their neighborhoods.

Crime in Southeast Fort Wayne decreased 1.28% during 2010. Before we take a closer look at the various crime categories, it's important to discuss relevant statistical data about our quadrant and its residents.

Nancy Chamberlin

Crime Prevention Bureau

Officer Battershell provided the majority of the Crime Prevention activities beginning in 2010. However, in April 2010, Officer Battershell was joined by Officer Michael Joyner. Having two officers assigned to the Crime Prevention Bureau provided the city with increased attention toward proactive crime prevention measures. To assist in handling the calls for crime prevention services, the city was divided into two areas and each crime prevention specialist was responsible for one area. Officer Joyner was responsible for the west side of Fort Wayne, while Officer Battershell was responsible for the east.

For the purpose of this report, each crime prevention specialist's duties shall be detailed with a final tally of all the Crime Prevention Bureau's activity.

The Department installed an "Unwanted Medication" drop-box in 2006, which allows citizens to drop off unwanted medications. This prevents them from being stolen and resold on the street, accidental overdose by children, and from being flushed down the toilet. In 2010, the Fort Wayne Police Department collected six hundred thirty-two (632) pounds of this unwanted medication which was disposed of in an environmentally friendly way.

Gang Unit

The Fort Wayne Police Department established the Gang Unit on July 15th, 2007, during which time it has been partnered with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, with great success. The Unit has consisted of four Officers, one Sergeant and Special Agent with the BATFE. As of November, the Unit has separated itself from exclusively being assigned to BATFE and has branched off to assist and take part in investigations with any and all outside agencies in an attempt to broaden its scope and utilize our abilities and resources with these other Agencies and Divisions.

The Unit had been awarded an ATF Federal Grant through "Project Safe Neighborhoods" which will continue until January 1st, 2011.

RECORDS BUREAU [BUREAU OF IDENTIFICATION]

SUMMARY OF ACTIVITIES

The Bureau's primary responsibility is to maintain the security and integrity of police records. Its responsibilities include services to the public, as well as Department officers and other police agencies in the form of accident reports, gun permits, incident reports and fingerprinting. The unit also enters the "Safe at Home" program applications, as well as officers' video logs.
